

2007-Sept

Brief Game Overview:

The place was one of the CityPatroles last remaining safe havens, Scott lays unconscious on the floor after receiving healing after his prelude went a bit awry. The players arrive at the scout hut in the middle of chop well woods ready to see what the CP have to tell them. The city patrol tells them the situation with the city. As a mysterious face mocks those who can see into the hysle it is a watcher of the emotions court of sprits.

One character stepped through to talk with the spirit who simply said it was watching

The talks are broken by the opening of a keyed gate and the exit of a scared female called Anna, she is wolf blooded and tonight was to be the night of her first change.....had she not been the target of a spirit of lies for its fettering. The few who could see where quick to tell every one what was happening and 3 of them sidestepped and fort with the spirit, that upon realising it was in a loosing battle fled in the form of a mist of spiders. With the sprit choosing to let her go she passes out, and is given to a member of the city patrol to take to a safe haven.....although the member it was given to is a subvert of the tools court of sprits in the city who took the unconscious Anna into the city and have her to the sprits.

The forsaken present where made into a pack, with the steel jaguars being a pack of there own, and the "nail guns" as they are currently known being the other.

Through out the night the cartoonists sketch book was the interface for some of the messages from the spirits to tell the forsaken to leave or get on with there arrival so they can be dealt with

A messenger of the city wreathed in an aura of fire (a spirit ridden) can to deliver a message from the spirits, to leave there territory and leave them to there lands. Upon stating that he personally had killed at least 10 memebers of the citypatrol in the decades he had been in existence, there alpha and scott attacked and killed its mortal host, travelled to the shadow and attacked it.....it did not fight back

The steel jaguar scared off a stoner boy racer by all turing into wolf form and jumping on the car before getting the backpack and a shovel from there car

Once everything was quiet again the steel jaguar pack took the body out side and burned it along with their clothes which where covered in blood. And buried the rest of the remains

Wile the steel jaguar where doing that the other packs set about cleaning the hut of blood but with no water it was hard for them to do most of it. After doing as much as they left arranging to meet at one of the others houses

The steel jaguar went back into the hut to change into there new clothes and saw the mess, sending one of there number to the shops to get as much cola as possible and some crisps. When he returned they all ripped a part of a t-shirt off and poured the cola over all the blood areas.